Introduction

Regeneration Profiles have been created for all eight regeneration areas in West Lothian, collating relevant data from national and local sources. The purpose of these profiles is to provide up to date data and key information consistently across the regeneration areas in West Lothian to assist groups/decision-makers when setting priorities for an area or to inform and evidence need.

Elected Representatives

The Fauldhouse regeneration area has three councillors, all of whom are elected on a proportional voting system to represent the whole ward. The three councillors meet regularly as a Local Area Committee. The Chair is David Dodds. Those elected in May 2012 for five years are:-

The regeneration area is located within the Almond Valley constituency for the Scottish Parliament which is represented by Angela Constance MSP. There are also seven list MSPs for the Lothians whose details are on the Scottish Parliament website.

The regeneration area is located within the Livingston constituency for the Westminster Parliament which is represented by Hannah Bardell M.P.

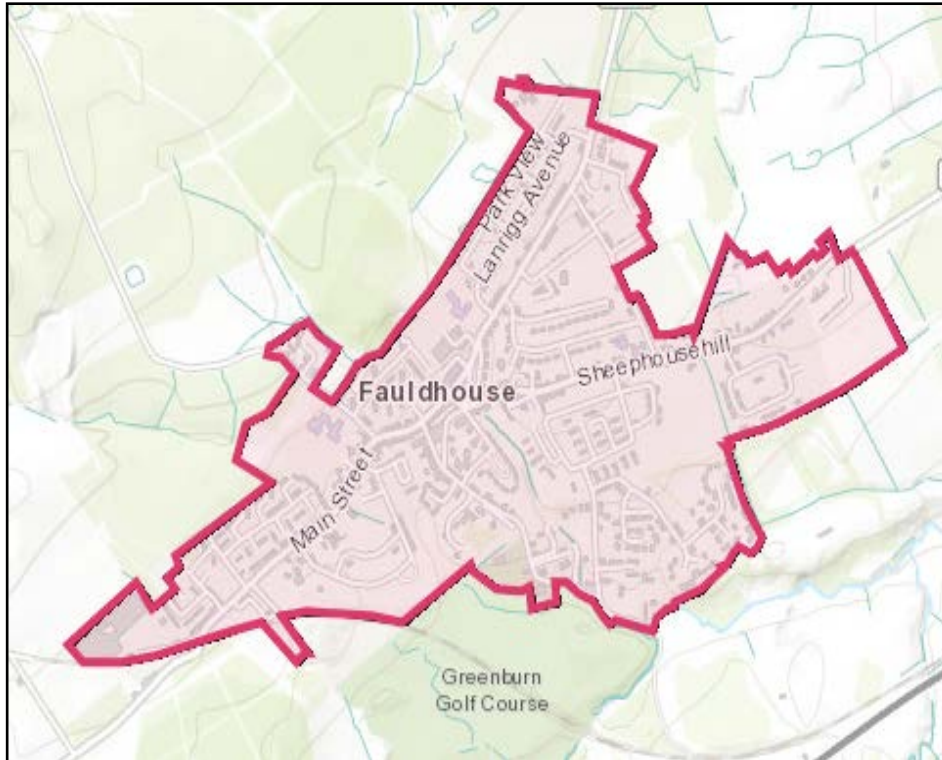

There are six Members of the European Parliament who represent the whole of Scotland. Information on these is available on the European Parliament website www.europarl.org.uk

The demographics of the area are as follows:

Age group	% in ward		% in WL
Under 16	22.6	1,201	19.87	35,011
Working age	65.0	3,461	65.23	114,902
Older people	12.4	658	14.88	26,227

Fauldhouse Census Data 2011

The census information in this profile covers several themes and is located throughout the profile.

The census information is broken down to the following sections:

- Population
- Identity
- Health
- Housing
- Education
- Labour

The census is undertaken every ten years. Because there is a legal requirement for households to complete the census it is the most comprehensive information available.

The information we have provided in this profile was published in 2011 so is out of date.

We can only provide information for Breich Valley and unfortunately not for the different communities in the town.

Quality of Life

The sixth West Lothian Quality of Life Survey for the Community Planning Partnership (CPP) was carried out in 2013 through the Citizens Panel.

The Panel is structured to be completely representative of the West Lothian population in terms of e.g. age, gender, across multi member wards, tenure and ethnicity and also representative at a multi member ward level. A total of 3,112 Panel members completed the survey in 2013 which was published in 2014.

A range of questions across a variety of subjects gave the CPP useful information about people's perceptions and experience of living in West Lothian. The CPP will use this information to plan, direct and prioritise services over the coming years. A sample of questions and results for West Lothian are shown in the tables below.

The table below illustrates the spread of the West Lothian population, per multi member ward compared to the spread of the Panel population.

Multi Member Ward	Population %	Panel %	Difference

The next quality of life survey is currently being planned and will be conducted in 2016-17

The table below analyses the response rate by area, indicating that there is a fairly significant variance on the basis of geography. The highest response rate was evident in Linlithgow where a 72% response rate was achieved. The lowest response rate was achieved in Armadale and Blackridge where 50% of Panel members responded.

Scottish Index Of Multiple Deprivation

The Scottish Index of Multiple Deprivation (SIMD) identifies small area concentrations of multiple deprivations across all of Scotland in a consistent way.

The SIMD provides a relative measure of deprivation which means that the SIMD 'ranks' can be used to compare data zones by providing a relative ranking. The SIMD has been used to identify Scotland's most deprived small areas on the overall index and each individual 'domain' (i.e. crime, income etc).

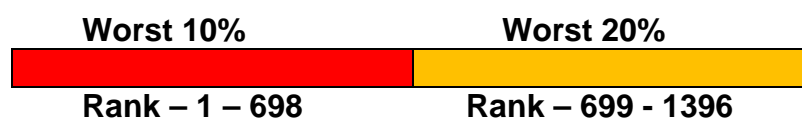

In September 2016, the Scottish Government released the latest figures and rankings for SIMD. It should be noted that it is not easy to compare with earlier releases as datazones have changed as well as the weightings of some domains.

The table below shows the breakdown of how each datazone ranks for each domains of the Scottish Index of Multiple Deprivation. The figure gives the ranking for each domain/ datazone from the 6505 datazones there are in Scotland. The higher the number, the better the ranking and vice-versa. Those in the worst 10% and 20% are identified in the legend at the foot of the table.

In a West Lothian context, although SIMD measures multiple deprivations most areas do not have high scores across all deprivation domains – usually only experiencing high scores in 2 or 3 at most. As described above in respect of individual datazones, Income, Employment, Health and Education seem to be the main drivers of deprivation in West Lothian. Crime is a factor insofar as the higher scoring datazones tend to have town centres where there is presumably more reported crime. Neither of the Housing or Access Domains seem to have a bearing or influence the overall deprivation scores.

Local Health Profiles – ScotPho

The Health Profiles are provided by ScotPho (The Scottish Public Health Observatory) which is a public body. The profiles are intended to increase understanding of local health issues and to prompt further investigation, rather than to be used as a 'performance management tool'. An indicator may be higher or lower in one area compared to another, but local knowledge is needed to understand and interpret differences.

The areas the statistics cover is based on the different communities within Breich Valley BUT do not fit neatly with the boundaries of the communities.

Measuring Child Poverty at a Local Level

The Campaign to end Child Poverty published a report in October 2014 which analysed the relative level of child poverty. The report provided a measure of the number of children in poverty in each ward, local authority and parliamentary constituency in the UK. These estimates are not accurate counts of how many children are in poverty in each area. Rather, they use the best local data available to give an indication of where child poverty is particularly high, and, therefore, where there need to be the strongest efforts to tackle it.

West Lothian's position

Throughout the UK, nearly one in six (15.9%) children are classified as below the poverty line before housing costs, while one in four (25.1%) are in poverty once housing costs have been deducted from their income. The report does not include a specific estimate for Scotland. However based on aggregating the Scottish Local Authority data in the report, the Scottish rate once housing costs are deducted is approximately 22%.

West Lothian's level is 13.3% before and 21.2% after housing costs – i.e. just below the Scottish level. Our ranking in Scotland puts us mid table alongside Edinburgh, Midlothian and Falkirk. Glasgow (33% after housing costs) has the highest level of child poverty. Most of the council areas with higher levels of child poverty can be found in the west of Scotland
There is a familiar pattern within West Lothian, with Whitburn and Blackburn and Fauldhouse and Breich Valley Multi Member Wards having the highest rates - just over 26% after housing costs.

Free School Meals

With the introduction of free school meals for all pupils in P1 to P3, primary school data does not provide a particularly accurate picture of the incidence of disadvantage. However, free school meal data at secondary demonstrates a pattern of deprivation that we see in other measures of poverty such as SIMD and Benefit claimant statistics. EG Inveralmond with the highest level of FSM registrations has a catchment which includes Craigshill and Ladywell.
