

Primary 4 Authors of Knightsridge Primary School

Author in Residence's Book Celebration

Knightsridge Primary School are working in partnership with Carmondean library and launching their very own P4 Authors in Residence event on Tuesday 29th January and Wednesday 30th January in the library. The library will be decorated with bunting from every child in the school which represents their favourite authors. The children will be reading to invited guests and our very own librarian, Mrs Pat Fisher, will be our storyteller. This very special event is to celebrate the children's success in writing and reading.

Knightsridge Primary School have been working very hard to promote their reading and writing culture over the past few years. Last year they had Scottish Book Trust author Christina Banach who taught the children how to write stories. This year P4 have been learning from this experience and have become authors too. Knightsridge Primary School were very proud to win the West Lothian Stellar Award for 'Promoting a reading culture' and to be Scottish Book Trust winners too. West Lothian are the very first local authority to win this award for reading and this prestigious award was presented by Ms Nicola Sturgeon, as part of the First Minister's Reading Challenge.

Carmondean Library are very proud to be part of this partnership with Knightsridge Primary School and hope to establish further links with other Primary Schools.
